

Court of Cassation

The mission of the Court of Cassation is to examine whether judgments delivered by courts of final resort comply with the law and with procedural rules.

In Belgium, members of a special bar of twenty lawyers bearing the legal title “avocat à la Cour de cassation – advocaat bij het Hof van Cassatie”, which are nominated by Royal Decree, have a monopoly on lodging appeals in civil matters with the Court of Cassation.

Liedekerke has the privilege of counting two lawyers admitted to the Bar of Cassation among its partners: Simone Nudelholc and Daniel Garabedian.

With a broader team of partners and associates, they are able to take charge of proceedings in the Court of Cassation in all practice areas (civil law and procedure, general commercial and corporate law, criminal law and procedure, public and administrative law, tax law, employment law, intellectual property, etc).

The daily practice of proceedings in the Court of Cassation gives the partners and associates in this team a unique insight into the evolution of case law not only of this Court but also of all appeal courts in the country; a valuable experience which enables them to help other internal departments with complex questions of procedure or interpretation of the law.
